HON 318: THE ART OF FAILURE

This course will be an exploration of what it means to internalize one's education. We will employ various techniques that alleviate the reliance on grades to gauge success, and redirect the emphasis on self-growth and personal assessment. Rather than "How well did I perform?", this course will challenge students to ask, "How much did I grow?"

The approach to this course will be a hybrid of seminar and studio practices, driven via weekly discussions, activities, and readings.
